Location: 203-209 Greene Street, Westmont, Johnstown, Cambria County, Pa.

Description: Large, two-and-a-half-story, brick house that was once a single-family residence, now converted into apartments and a doctor's office. The shed-roofed wrap-around porch is supported by Ionic fluted columns connected with turned balusters. Leaded glass transom and sidelights. A small, hipped-roof porch on the south side of the house has fluted Tuscan columns and is a later addition. The windows have smooth gray lintels and sills.

History: P. C. Isaacs and his wife, Annetie, purchased two lots here in block 31 on November 28, 1902, for $2900. Isaacs sold the lots to Jonathan Gardner, a lumberman, in 1905. In 1909 Gardner built two houses on two lots for an assessed value of $5,200. Gardner also became a merchant in that same year.

Project Information: This report was part of a larger project to document the city of Johnstown, Pennsylvania. The project was undertaken by the Historic American Buildings Survey/Historic American Engineering Record (HABS/HAER), Robert Kapsch, chief, at the request of America's Industrial Heritage Project (AIHP). An overview of history of the city (HABS No. PA-5669) and an overview of the neighborhood of Westmont (HABS No. PA-5671) provide context for these buildings as well as a comprehensive list of sources. See also additional HABS reports on buildings in the downtown and other neighborhoods.

This report was prepared by Cheryl Powell in August 1988 under the direction of Alison K. Hoagland, HABS historian, and Kim E. Wallace, the supervisory historian of the project. Powell's and other project historians' work was published as The Character of a Steel Mill City: Four Historic Neighborhoods of Johnstown, Pennsylvania (Washington, D.C.: HABS/HAER, National Park Service, 1989), edited by Kim E. Wallace. Illustrations in the publication include large format photographs taken by HAER photographer Jet Lowe and 35 mm photographs taken by the project historians.
